Unsightly pools mar new beach

Improvements scheduled

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis' new beachfront should look more like a dry, sandy shoreline soon -- with some additional drainage work and maintenance.

Unsightly pools of standing water have pock-marked the city's newly-laid strand since it was pumped into place earlier this year.

The problem has lessened somewhat since county work crews have begun maintaining the city beachfront project, stretching for some 5,000 feet north of Bookter Street. And, city officials are preparing papers to authorize additional drainage work to deal with the problem.

At a meeting earlier this month, City Council members raised the issue during a briefing by Marty Dove of Brown and Mitchell, Inc., the engineering firm that designed the beach project.

Dove attributed the problem to groundwater seepage through the seawall, noting the high elevation of the adjoining bluff. The beach, he said, becomes saturated and can't drain because additional

Drainage and other problems have plagued the new beach in Bay St. Louis, which stretches for nearly 5,000 feet north of Bookter Street. The problems have caused pools of stagnant water to form on the beach, which was completed earlier this year. However, work will soon begin to correct the unsightly mess. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

Bourgeois plans to stay in school administration

BY TRACI BONNEY

Career educator, Myrna Bourgeois said she plans to stay in her chosen field after she leaves office in January.

Bourgeois, defeated in the August primary election for the office of Hancock County School Superintendent after one term in office, said she is still looking for something in education.

"I'd like to find something at the central office/administrator level," she stated. "I'd like to stay on the Coast, if possible. Hancock County is my home."

Bourgeois began her education career as a teacher at St. Clare School in Waveland for 12 years, where she sponsored several extracurricular activities while teaching second grade for seven years and fourth grade for five years. From there she moved into the Hancock County school system.

Before entering office as superintendent in January 1992, she was assistant principal and acting principal (during the Persian Gulf War) at Gulfview Elementary, and the school district's special education supervisor.

Bourgeois has held elementary and junior high teaching positions in the mainstream classroom, and in several specialized areas: special education, gifted education, mental retardation, learning disabilities, and emotionally disturbed students.

Her degrees include masters in administration, elementary principalship, special subjects supervisor, curriculum specialist, psychometry and administrative supervision.

As a psychometrist, she is certified to evaluate students' IQ and achievement levels.

"I wanted to do more than just teach the students," she commented. "I wanted to find out why they are where they are educationally and developmentally."

She is, or has been a member of a number of educational boards and committees on the local, regional and state level, including the board of directors of Jobs for Mississippi Graduates, an appointment made by the governor.

Before entering the education field, Bourgeois was a lab technician and nurse, working in both pediatrics and general practice.

A member of Our Lady of the Gulf Church, Bourgeois is active in local civic and social organizations, including the Krewe of Nereids, the Hancock Chamber of Commerce and American Legion Auxiliary Post 77 in Waveland.

"I think the last four years have been the happiest years of my life, in terms of enjoying my job," she commented. "Every day has been something to look forward to, knowing that my work is helping shape the futures of hundreds of students."

"I think I still have more to contribute to education, and I'd like to do that, at least for four more years. Then I'll probably retire from education and look

SCI granted Hwy. 603 extension

BY MARY G. SEILEY

SCI will have plenty of time to finish four-laning Highway 603 without the state of Mississippi assessing liquidated damages, two attorneys said Wednesday.

Whitney Jones Byars and Peyton S. Irby Jr., said Wednesday MDOT will stick with its position that the project carries 448 "time units" until completion -- giving SCI into next spring to complete the project.

SCI's attorney, Thomas W. Prewitt, however, was ready to wage war over previous notification that the project would have to be wrapped up much earlier -- by the end of this week -- to avoid a $785-per-day penalty.

Fire destroys Fahey's Drugs

A fire late Monday night destroyed Fahey's Drugs in Bay St. Louis. Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate said thanks to quick response by the Bay St. Louis Fire Department, fire damage was held to a minimum. However, smoke and water damage gutted the business. Pate said the fire is under investigation, although he said the cause may have been electrical. Fahey's has been a Bay St. Louis landmark since 1918. (Echo staff photo by Richard Meek)

New casino closer?

BY ED LEPOMA

A South Beach Boulevard property owner has won a commercial designation for a strip of waterfront near Bayou Caddy, and says two investor groups are interested in the site for a proposed casino.

Jim Maness, who owns parts of 60 acres of waterfront between Sandy Bayou and Lakeshore Road, said he was elated over the ruling issued last week by the Commission of Marine Resources because he had waged a long battle to obtain a new designation for the area, and to correct errors made in the Coastal Zone Management plan, originally drawn in 1980 and revised in 1988.

But, Maness added, "The

Local children's museum garners district support

BY TRACI BONNEY

Going to the grocery store may come to have a different meaning, if the organizers of the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center for Children have their way.

Betsy Grant, project coordinator for the center, garnered the unanimous support of the Hancock County school board recently for the Discovery Center, a hands-on, interactive children's museum to be established in Gulfport.

Grant said the project will be the first children's museum in Mississippi, and will have exhibits geared to young people from ages three through high school. The closest existing one now is in New Orleans.

"This is not just another field trip," Grant stated. "This is an opportunity for children to get some hands-on learning in an environment that makes education fun."

"The museum also will have a teacher resource center, with ongoing staff development programs. That's why all the educators we talked with so far are excited about it. It offers something for both the students and the teachers."

The museum started when the Junior Auxiliary of Gulfport decided after Hurricane Camille to support a small hands-on exhibit center for school-age children. The center was a success, and the group decided to raise funds for a permanent children's museum. In 1991, the Junior Auxiliary donated $50,000 as seed money for the project.

Named for the late daughter of one of the museum's originators, the center will be located in the Old Mississippi City Elementary School on Dolan Avenue in Gulfport, just 1 1/2 blocks from the beach. The adjacent gym was given to the project earlier this year to house two large exhibits donated by NASA, Grant said.

Concordia Architects was hired to develop the concept for the museum. Concordia's Stephen Binger and his associates have participated in the Jackson Brewery Development, the Aquarium of the Americas and the new Contemporary Arts Center in New Orleans.

The exhibits will include several themes: Building Blocks of the Universe; Our Bodies, Ourselves; We and the Community; the Community and We; and The World We Were Given, The World We Build. A grocery store and a working television station are only two of the planned exhibits.

Grant said, "We're contacting Mississippi State University's landscape architecture department for work on the land outside the museum. We're thinking about having some interactive exhibits outdoors as well as inside.

"We have the four acres around the building, so we may even do something like a farmer's market outside. There are a number of possibilities we are exploring."

The Hancock school board voted to endorse the museum project and to allow the schools, with the permission of the principals, to engage in fund raising to support the museum.

Two men sentenced

Two Lakeshore men were sentenced Nov. 14 for woods arson in connection with four forest fires that occurred March 9 on Old Lower Bay Road on International Paper Co. forest lands.

Christian.

Involved in the investigation were Mississippi Forestry Commission Investigators M. T. Parker and Maurice Mitchell, Hancock County Forester Mark Jamieson, and Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda.

Mississippi Forestry Commission Investigator Maurice Mitchell said, "Woods arson fires are very serious since the fires can destroy homes in rural areas in addition to damaging the forest."

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

We are now in the most busy season of the year — Christmas, banquets, parties, family visits, shopping, etc.

Yet, there are still other activities happening on top of the above.

This afternoon at 4 p.m. a long-awaited ribbon cutting will be taking place with the completion of Aloha Drive in Diamondhead.

This project is one that has been in the making for a number of years, so I know our friends in Diamondhead are happy to see it finally come to pass.

It is hoped everyone will be on hand for this big celebration.

At 4:30 p.m. there will be the Christmas Tree lighting at Merchants Bank in Diamondhead.

All of this will be followed by Diamondhead's big 25th Anniversary and Holiday Celebration, sponsored by the Property Owners Association and Business and Professional Association.

This will be from 5-9 p.m. at the Diamondhead Days Inn.

Live entertainment, food sampling, a golf fashion show, and a visit from Santa is scheduled at 6 p.m. Word is that Santa may arrive in a limo.

Food sampling will be from the Diamondhead Country Club, Torgy's, Lagniappe Orleans, Diamondhead Yacht Club, The Runway Cafe and Diamondhead Supermarket.

Some 45 merchants will have displays, and registrations will be held for many exciting door prizes.

There will be fashion shows by L.L. Ltd., Just Judy's and Southern Child.

Continuous entertainment will from 9-11 p.m. with music by Allen Hightower.

The John C. Stennis Space Center's museum will be displaying a space suit.

Our friends in Diamondhead are all excited about tonight's events, and I hope to see you there.

During the holiday season several of our local merchants will be holding open houses for the public.

We listed several of them in last Thursday's Shopping Guide.

I am hoping many of you will take advantage of this opportunity to visit with the local merchants.

Remember, it pays for everyone to shop at home throughout the year.

Friday night will be the annual Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's banquet and installation of officers.

The event this year will be held at Casino Magic's Torgy's beginning at 6 p.m. Dr. Aubrey Lucas, president of the University of Southern Mississippi is the guest speaker.

This event requires prior reservations at the chamber.

Our neighbors to the east in Pass Christian on Friday will celebrate Christmas in The Pass XI from 4 to 9 p.m.

Pass Downtown Merchants are hosting open house with refreshments and activities.

Santa is scheduled to arrive in the park for the youngsters.

Saturday, Dec. 2, is the big annual Hancock County Red Ribbon Christmas parade.

The parade will form prior to 10 a.m. on St. Francis near St. John Street and will proceed down Main Street to Beach Boulevard.

It will move down Beach Boulevard to the Bay bridge and disband.

Santa plans on being there, too.

To close Saturday evening will be The Nutcracker Ballet, 7:30 p.m. at Bay High School Auditorium.

The event is sponsored by The Coast Youth Ballet Ensemble and is co-sponsored by the Bay High Arts Association.

For ticket information, contact the Ballet Place, 466-2625 or 467-4601.

We have many other holiday events coming along, and we hope to keep you abreast of them in our upcoming editions.

Taylor to sponsor student art contest

South Mississippi high school students are invited to share their artistic talents with the community by participating in the Fifth Congressional District Art Competition.

It has been my pleasure to sponsor the annual event for the past five years for ninth-12th grade students in South Mississippi. All students are urged to participate and share their creativity and imagination.

The competition is a great opportunity for students who hope to have a career in the art field to meet with art patrons and educators and showcase their work.

Last year over 150 students participated. Last year's Best of Show winner was Chris Walter of Perry Central High School with his drawing, "Back of the Class." Winners were also chosen from the four different categories, collage, drawing, painting and printing.

The overall winner will be invited to visit Washington DC, where his or her work will remain on display in the Cannon House Office Building for one year.

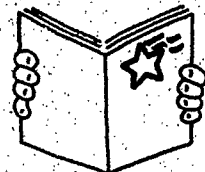

In addition, I always display other winners in my district offices in Gulfport, Pascagoula and Hattiesburg. Every year I am amazed with the caliber of talent and enthusiasm displayed by young artists.

This year marks the 15th annual Congressional Art Competition in which schools from across our nation have participated.

Entries are due in one of my district offices by Friday, March 22, 1996. The competition will be held at William Carey College in Hattiesburg during the week of March 25. Scholarships from Taylor and William Carey College will also be awarded.

For additional information about the competition, contact Jerry Martin at 1-800-273-4363 or 582-3246.

The Hill does report on Cochran-Lott feud

The Hill, A Washington publication that focuses on what's going on in Congress has seen fit to do a piece about the feud between Mississippi's two Republican U.S. Senators — Thad Cochran and Trent Lott.

It's never been a secret that a rivalry has existed between Cochran and Lott ever since they were members of the U.S. House of Representatives together back in the 1970s. Moreso, Lott's jealousy of Cochran seems to have become more evident since Cochran won the Senate seat vacated by Jim Eastland in 1978.

In 1980, Lott, then the GOP Whip in the House, tried to make an end-run against the longstanding Senatorial custom and get President Reagan to pick his choice for the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals rather than Cochran's nominee. However, Reagan stuck with Cochran's choice for the judgeship.

Lott won the Senate seat vacated by John Stennis in 1988, using Cochran's coat-tails with a slogan of "T and T," Thad and Trent, to get elected.

Their Senate relationship wasn't helped a year ago when Lott, after just finishing his freshman term, catapulted over Cochran in the GOP leadership echelon by becoming a candidate for the Majority Whip job held by Wyoming's Alan Simpson.

Cochran, according to The Hill story, tried to discourage his colleague from running, telling Lott, "I hope you don't run against my good friend Al." Not only did Lott run, but he beat out Simpson, and old ally of Sen. Bob Dole, by one vote.

Cochran remained non-committal the whole time, and as chairman of the GOP Conference, presided over the caucus that elected party leaders. Lott's election to the whip job pushed him up to number two man in the party lineup and Cochran number three.

Lott told The Hill reporter he didn't think he did anything wrong by running. Cochran, he declared, "could have run for whip and he didn't." The ambitious Lott added, "Up or out has always been my attitude."

The Washington publication's story conveyed the idea that the real rivalry between Lott, 54, and Cochran, 57, is over their long-term ambitions to either be Majority Leader of the Senate (Dole's present job) or the vice presidential candidate on the next Republican ticket.

That seems partly true, at least mostly in the case of the media-savvy Lott. His "up or out" attitude very definitely includes becoming Majority Leader and likely vice president.

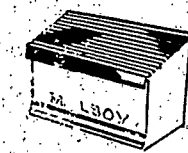

The laid-back genteel Cochran doesn't harbor visions of the vice presidency, his best friends believe, but Majority Leader is within probability.

He admitted to The Hill that he had been encouraged to think about the leader post by some of his colleagues, but it would be "up to other Senators" to want him to seek the Majority Leader job.

Of course, if that ever occurred it would pit two Mississippi senators against each other for the Majority Leader job, because it's virtually certain Lott would be in the race. Cochran had noted that there's no track record of party whip being elevated to leader.

How the Cochran-Lott rivalry plays out will largely impinge on GOP presidential politics yet to come. Cochran is openly supporting Dole for the Republican nomination; while Lott, who won the whip spot with the help of Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, is in the Gramm camp for the nomination.

However, of late, with Gramm's presidential bid faltering, Lott has been vague about his backing of Gramm.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Family thankful for Bay building inspector

Dear Editor,

As we all know, this is a special time and season of the year, Thanksgiving.

I thought I would pass along my family's special Thanksgiving.

My husband and I are especially thankful for a wonderful man by the name of Mr. Bill Carrigee, our city's building inspector.

We are in the process of building a new home in Bay St. Louis and have run into some difficulties. My husband is a recovering stroke patient who has been left with his right side partially paralyzed, and thus it is very difficult for him to move around and check on the building of our new home.

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Carrigee when he first came by our building site to check on the builder's work.

Mr. Carrigee has been a blessing in disguise. He has taken a very strong interest and is very determined that things will be done correctly and our home will be constructed properly in order to meet the high standards of the city.

Mr. Carrigee has made sure the builder corrected a number of things that needed to be fixed.

It gives one a very warm feeling to know that we do indeed have city officials who care about their citizens.

Mr. Carrigee is a very dedicated person, and the citizens of Bay St. Louis are indeed fortunate to have someone with his high standards as the building inspector.

Warm regards,
David and Glenda Schneider

Governor Fordice proclaims December Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month

Gov. Kirk Fordice has proclaimed December as Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month in Mississippi and Dec. 15 as "Lights on for Life," a one-day motor-vehicle headlight observance in remembrance of persons killed or injured in alcohol-related crashes.

Noting that the theme of this year's month-long observance is "Take A Stand Against Impaired Driving," Fordice said that "approximately 40,000 Americans were killed in motor vehicle crashes, and, of these deaths, almost 16,600 involved alcohol."

Of drivers in Mississippi traffic deaths who were tested for alcohol, more than 350 of those killed were alcohol-impaired.

The governor indicated that "studies have shown that the country's most at-risk group for driving impaired are young adult male drivers ages 21-34" and that "particular attention must be paid to reaching this age group."

Fordice called upon "each citizen, throughout December, to make a conscious effort to ensure a safe and healthy holiday season for everyone by not driving impaired, by being a responsible party host and by intervening when someone you know attempts to get behind the wheel after drinking or taking drugs."

He also asked motorists to drive with their vehicle headlights on all day Friday, Dec. 15 in observing "Lights on for Life" to remember persons killed and injured in alcohol-related crashes and as a reminder to "all citizens of the dangers of driving under the influence of alcohol or other drugs."

Donald O'Cain, governor's representative for highway safety and executive director, Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning, noted that "just a few drinks can turn even a normally safety-conscious driver into a roadway killer."

He emphasized three points: "Never drive after consuming alcoholic beverages or using other mind-altering drugs, never ride with a driver who has been drinking and never permit a friend or relative to drive after the individual has been drinking."

"Because some holiday parties involve alcoholic beverages," he noted, "it's extremely important to designate one or more persons, who will not be drinking at the party, to drive others home."

Noting that even motorists who have not been drinking face the possibility of encountering a drunk driver on the roadway, he said that "two of the best protections you have is you're in a crash caused by a drunk driver, or any other factor, are using your motor vehicle safety belt and having all child passengers buckled into child protective devices."

Last year, more than 70 percent of those killed in crashes were not using these occupant protection devices. Other studies indicate that approximately 50 percent of the individuals killed could have been saved by their use.

"Also, I urge all motorists who see a suspected drunk driver to report this immediately to the nearest law enforcement agency," O'Cain said.

Choose gifts that make money for kids on your Christmas list

A parent's greatest holiday lament, quite possibly comes when the expensive I-gotta-have-it Christmas toy ends up deserted by the time Santa is out of sight.

Savvy St. Nicks wanting to take some of the risk out of holiday shopping this year might consider investing sums of from $25-$500 upwards for a child's future, says an economist at the University of Mississippi.

Opening a savings account or investing in the stock market in your child's name is gift-giving with a payoff.

"Starting out at a relatively young age and adding to the investment monthly or yearly means the child will have a considerable amount of money built up by the time he or she is ready to go to college," says Dr. William Shughart II, holder of the Self Chair of Free Enterprise and professor of economics in the Old Miss School of Business Administration.

For Santas who've had a bad crop year or other adversity and can't spare $500 to invest in stocks, a minimum of $25 will open a bank savings account in a child's name. Two other gift options, which can be made in varying amounts and also offer tax breaks on savings, are accounts set up under the Universal Gift to Minors Act and life insurance.

But for long-term savings, "there's absolutely nothing better than the stock market," says Shughart. "The bond market is sensitive to ups and downs, but the stock market over five, 10 or 15 years outperforms any other investment because of the expectation that the economy will continue to grow at historic rates."

A firm continues to pay dividends, and its stock goes up in value as it grows along with the economy," says the professor, who suggests working through a broker or financial adviser, as well as a tax adviser, to reach certain financial objectives based on each family's needs.

If an initial investment in a mutual fund of about $500 blows the top off the family budget, consider opening a savings account in a child's name for as little as $25. While an account alone is not sufficient for long-term investment, it's a good way to educate kids about managing money, says Shughart.

"The account is in the child's own name, he sees the interest accumulate, and the balance goes up or down depending on how much he spends or saves. If he wants to buy something, he can see how the amount he spends will be subtracted from his account. It's a good teaching tool."

With mutual funds the child also learns the meaning of investing, with a payoff down the road. "As the child gets older, parents should help him learn how to read the financial pages in the newspaper," says Shughart.

"Try having the child keep track of mutual funds over a period of time, and watch it go up and down, as it will. It's overall trend should be upward, and that's an important lesson to teach, I think. The fact that the stock is down today or next week is not so important; it's the long-term trend that matters, and most any well-managed mutual fund will show steady growth."

However, taking some risk early on is not a bad idea, says the Ole Miss professor.

"Initially, when the child is young, a parent may want to invest in technology stocks or other small-growth companies that carry more risk but offer the change of a bigger payoff. Closer to the time when the money will be needed, it's best to gradually shift into a fixed-rate investment that guarantees a minimal rate of return, so when a child turns 18, he won't have to be told, 'Sorry, you can't go to college. The stock market is down.'"

The Universal Gift to Minors Act is an option that will allow wealth to accumulate without being subject to any tax up to a ceiling on dividend income each year, advises Shughart. "The dividends are taxable at the child's marginal tax rate rather than the parents', so there is some advantage."

But there are also disadvantages to having money in a child's name, warns the economist. "The disadvantage is that at age 18 in some states, 21 in others, the money becomes the child's with the legal right to do whatever he or she wishes, such as going to college or buying a new car."

"Also, parents have to think ahead to college and university financial aid applications. If there's a significant amount of money saved in a child's name, then that's going to reduce the amount of financial aid for which the child will be eligible."

Purchasing life insurance on a young child is another wise choice in preparing for the future, says Shughart. "When a child is young and doesn't have to satisfy any health requirements, there is the assurance that no matter what happens to that child's health over his lifetime, he will always be insured."

"And there are some kinds of life insurance policies that build not only life insurance protection but cash value which can later be borrowed against for college or other needs. Or, ownership of the policy can be transferred to the child, and he can decide to start making payments or just keep the cash value that has built up."

before a lease could be granted.

The DMR Chief of Ecology, Dave Ruppel, wanted to have the Commission to only rule on specific projects regardless of the methods for consideration in the Mississippi Coastal Program. Commissioner Vernon Asper steadfastly agreed with him.

The wetland use plan map has been changed to reflect the change in character of the water bottoms "only" in the water bottoms below high tide in the area between Lakeshore Road and Sand Bayou.

The request was supported by resolution from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Sheriff Peterson, all Hancock County state legislators, Tourist Association, municipal governments and a whole host of other county organizations.

The change will allow for sites for water-dependent industries in Hancock County,

Casino

Department of Marine Resources will still maintain full control of what goes into the area.

Shortly after the rezoning, Maness said, "We have heard from two groups of investors who want to start negotiations for a casino now."

Maness, and the other major property owner, whom he identified as the Elliott family, were supposed to meet with the groups late Wednesday.

He said if negotiations were successful, investors would have to come up with architectural drawings so these could be proposed at DMR's next monthly meeting.

Once investors reveal what they propose, and the BMR gives the go-ahead, Maness said investors could then apply to the State Gaming Commission for site approval and a license to operate a casino.

"The major holdup was the zoning," said Maness. This thing (the closing of Harrah's temporary casino) in New Orleans has opened up the whole Gulf Coast. A lot of investors will be looking this way."

Specifically, last week Maness gained a 3-1 vote on his request to designate the site a "Special Zone 3." That designation would allow a marina or water-dependent industries, such as a fish processing plant, a boat repair yard, but no heavy industries.

The vote was 3-1 with Chairman Vernon Asper against. Commissioners Webb Lee, William Mitchell and Sherman Muths voted in favor. Commissioner Oliver Sahuque left the room before the vote was taken, and was not recorded for or against.

The ruling represents a victory for Maness, who has waged a long battle to overturn errors he said were made in the original and revised Coastal Zone Management Plan.

Originally, the site was designated P-Zone or a "preservation district" because of claims there was seagrasses in the area.

Maness hired a leading botanist, who conducted scientific studies, which he said, "showed there never was and never will be any seagrass in the area."

After that designation was changed, the site was rezoned S-2, and preserved for oyster leases, but Maness later argued successfully that state law forbids setting aside waterbottoms for leasing when property owners have rights to land stretching 750 yards from shore.

The site was then designated a G-Zone, which Maness said was "a catch-all" zoning for areas of high recreational use, such as swimming, and boating.

Maness said he proved to Commissioners present that less than one person per day used the area in question, so the designation should not apply.

The DMR staff made no recommendation on Maness's request.

Lynn Lofton, a spokesman for the DMR said the ruling represents a minor victory for property owners.

She said any plans for a casino or any other business on the environmentally sensitive site would still face approval by a host of federal and state agencies.

Last year, Maness had optioned his property in the area to officials of Galaxy Casino, but the DMR rejected the proposal on grounds the area was used predominantly for recreational purposes.

How parents can improve child's behavior at school

Children who behave in class find it easier to learn and also contribute to a learning environment for their classmates, says Dr. Joan Harlan, a University of Mississippi professor of elementary education. And parents can do certain things at home to help their child's school behavior.

An expert on the subject with 25 years of experience, Harlan's ninth book, "The Ultimate Behavior Management Text for Teachers," will soon be published. Her book follows the educational psychology tenets of praise, reinforcement and rewards in managing children's behavior. The professor gives these suggestions for parents:

• Reinforce positive behavior. Praise children for being good instead of waiting to catch them misbehaving. To be effective, good behavior does not have to be reinforced every time it happens. A partial schedule of praise works.

• Be consistent. "Inconsistency undoes a lot of parents' efforts," Harlan said. The partial schedule works on the negative side, too. When a parent "gives in" even one time to misbehavior, a child learns that he can win occasionally and will keep trying.

"In other words, consistently stick by your rules, so a child's nagging never leads to positive payoff. Put good behavior on a partial schedule of praise and recognition because that's all it takes," the Ole Miss professor said.

• Live up to parental responsibilities. Keep abreast with a child's homework. Be supportive and encouraging, but do not do the work for the child. Also, ensure that the child is in good health and does not need such things as glasses, hearing aid or medication.

• Be clear and specific in communicating expectations. Instead of scolding or nagging because a child isn't doing what you want, practice good communications. Don't give general or vague instructions about behavior or tasks.

• Don't be afraid to "sweeten the pie." Essentially, everybody needs that prod, push or encouragement in some way or another, and that's management. Not to reward or praise a child because he'll get a swelled head is not appropriate.

• Take a more active role in your child's education.

Communicate with the teacher, being aware of what and how the child is doing. Be on hand to help with the more serious problems, but don't rush in to "solve" normal childhood school problems.

• Make reading a priority. The single most important thing parents can do educationally for children, says Harlan, is to read to them. "Parents are their child's first and most significant teacher, so they should set an example by being readers themselves and by reading to the child."

Parents of sick children want to know:

When to call the doctor?

Although fever is common in children, many parents worry as soon as their child develops a mild temperature, says Dr. John Juergens, professor of pharmacy administration at the University of Mississippi. A child's temperature may vary by 2.5 degrees Fahrenheit in a 24-hour period. Temperature peaks usually occur between 5 and 7 p.m., and drops generally occur between 3 and 5 a.m.

If your child does have a fever, listed here are some basic guidelines to follow. Juergens helped develop them for a prenatal class taught by Ole Miss pharmacy students as a service project for Rho Chi Pharmaceutical Fraternity.

• Acetaminophen is the best choice for fever management for children or adolescents. Both aspirin and ibuprofen have been known to cause Reye's Syndrome in children when used during a viral infection (chicken pox, influenza, respiratory infections) or up to seven days after a viral infection.

Reye's Syndrome is a very serious condition that may lead to severe permanent damage or death, warns the Ole Miss professor.

• Parents should take care to administer the recommended dosage. Many pediatric fever products are in liquid form, and the strength of the formulations may differ. A dosage should be given with the dropper or measuring device that comes in the package.

• Never give a child under age of two any over-the-counter nonprescription medications without first consulting a physician or pharmacist, warns Juergens. Also call your physician when your child:

• Has an oral temperature of more than 102 F.

• Has fever for more than two days.

• Has vomited for more than 12 hours or has diarrhea for more than two days.

• Is experiencing rapid or difficult breathing.

• Has severe abdominal pain or cramping.

• Has had a cold or the flu for more than seven days.

• Has an unidentified skin rash.

• Under the age of two develops a fever.

• Is an infant less than three months of age and has a rectal temperature of more than 100.4 or less than 97.5 F.

• Is an infant and is not feeding and does not have five or six wet diapers per day.

The Grand Spa — A Day Spa and Salon at Grand Casino Gulfport Hotel announces a Chris Clark art exhibition and reception. The reception will be Friday, Dec. 1 from 6-9 p.m. Clark will be available to visit with guests about her work.

Artist and designer — Clark paints and sculpts — is from New Orleans. At an early age she was exposed to the work of Walter Anderson, and his influence can be seen in much of her art. Clark's work has been shown in various regions of the South, including the Dallas Museum of Contemporary Art, The Shreveport Museum, Texas Women's Caucus, St. Tammany Art Association and the Contemporary Arts Center in New Orleans. The exhibit will be available for viewing at the Grand Spa until late January 1996.

Saturday, Dec. 2, the Grand Spa will host an open house from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Refreshments will be served, and drawings will be held throughout the day for a day at the Grand Spa. Guests do not have to be present to win.

For information, call the Grand Spa at the Grand Casino Gulfport Hotel at 1-800-946-7777 or 601/870-7206.

Superstar Legends

The Grand New American Superstars show began a six-month run at America Live! Grand Casino Gulfport on Thursday, Nov. 2. The show, approximately one hour and 15 minutes in length, features living tributes to superstar legends Michael Jackson, Charlie Daniels, The Four Tops and Madonna.

Showtimes are 3 and 8 p.m. daily, except Wednesday. Ticket are $9.95 for matinee performances and $14.95 for evening shows. Tickets are available at the America Live! Box Office.

Nineteen-year-old Milwaukee native Damian Brantley portrays the legendary Michael Jackson. Brantley began his musical career at the age of 8 when he started playing piano and keyboard. In addition to his musical abilities, he sings, writes songs and produces.

Auditioning for the role of Michael Jackson was a goal Brantley believed he could achieve and was thrilled when he got the job. Now with the Grand New American Superstars, he has already earned his own nickname as "The Prince of Pop."

Johnny Potash was born and raised in Reno, Nev. and began playing the violin and fiddle when he was six years old. Attracted to fiddle music, he studied privately for years and began entering Blue Grass festivals while still a youngster.

Playing the fiddle, guitar and mandolin, Potash has been with the Superstars production since April, 1994. Fans of Charlie Daniels won't be disappointed at Potash's portrayal of the country legend.

Portraying the legendary Motown singers, The Four Tops are Cushman Roberts, Redd Williams, Ron Stevenson and Claude Barnett.

New Jersey natives Roberts and Stevenson met while in Vegas; Williams, came from Richmond, Va., and retired from a distinguished military career; Barnett has strong gospel roots and hails from Chicago.

John Ray has toured worldwide as Madonna, and has also appeared in video with Madonna as her double. Originally from a military family from Los Angeles, Ray has also worked as a hairdresser with Michael Jackson's tour group. In her 30s, she's performed in Japan, Spain and Italy.

The Grand New American Superstars will keep you excited with electrifying dancers, live music, and legendary performances.

Bankruptcy Court okays purchase of Palace Casino

The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of Mississippi ruled Tuesday, Nov. 21, in favor of the proposed purchase of the Palace Casino located in Biloxi, by Casino Resource Corporation, (NASDAQ: CSNR).

The dockside vessel will be purchased by Casino Resource Corporation for a total cash purchase price of $12 million. The ruling follows several months of negotiation and extends the closing date of the transaction to January 31, 1996, in exchange for the court's granting to Casino Resource Corporation, in lieu of exclusivity, a right of first refusal as protection against any competing offer that might be entertained through that date.

The terms of the company's offer were previously accepted by the Maritime Group, Ltd., which will continue to operate the property under Chapter 11 reorganization until the closing date of the transaction. According to Jack Pilger, chief executive officer, Casino Resource Corporation contemplates financing its purchase of the property through a combination of debt and equity, or through a joint venture partner who would provide part or all of the equity.

Pilger emphasized that Casino Resource Corporation is not considering a Reg. S offering. "We recognize our obligation to shareholders and are committed to acting in their best interest and in the best long-term interest of the company," he said.

Pilger also noted that the company remains committed to keeping the facility on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

"With certain operational improvements and the capital restructuring we expect to put in place, Casino Resource Corporation's purchase of the Palace Casino represents an important opportunity for the company, its shareholders, and the continued economic health of the region," said Pilger. "We are confident in our ability to structure financing that will be appropriate to the property's performance and that will help optimize return over cost to our shareholders," he added.

Pilger also noted that licensing to operate the property is being processed through the Mississippi Gaming Commission, which he anticipates will be finalized by the Commission at its Dec. 28 meeting.

"While there are always certain 'unknowns' about a project of this magnitude, many positive developments have been running parallel to yesterday's decision by the court, and we are encouraged by the progress that has been made along several fronts to position Casino Resource Corporation as a full-fledged gaming and entertainment company," said Pilger.

He added that while the company is considering relocating the vessel to a berth with frontage on I-90, he expects in any event that the property will begin cash flowing under new ownership during the first calendar quarter of 1996.

Casino Resource Corporation will serve as a paid consultant and technical advisor to Harrah's in the implementation of these agreements, receiving 21.6 percent of Harrah's management fee throughout a five-year term and any extensions. The agreement does not require Casino Resource Corporation to provide any of the capital necessary for development.

Casino Resource Corporation is a diversified hospitality and entertainment enterprise. The company owns and operates the 2,000-seat Country Tonite Theatre in Branson, Mo.; Country Tonite Enterprises, an award-winning theatrical production company in Las Vegas (producers of the "Country Tonite Show," currently in its fourth year at the Aladdin Hotel); and the 154-room Grand Hinckley Inn, located in Hinkley, Minn., adjacent to the Grand Casino.

Beach

groundwater runoff is constantly accumulating.

City planner Les Fillingame said Hancock County's new maintenance practices for the portion of beach at issue has led to a substantial decrease of standing water. And, he said, a swale has been created on beachfront behind the Dock of the Bay restaurant, helping eliminate some of the standing water.

Total project costs had been expected at $690,000, for pumping the beachfront into place and providing drainage. But city costs were some $45,000 less than that—in part because the city eliminated a section of waterfront from the project when ownership questions arose.

Officials say the remaining money will be more than sufficient to provide the additional drainage work necessary. Council is expected to discuss a change order for the drainage work at its first meeting in December.

for something else as a challenge.

"I make clothing, and when I was younger I had a dream for a long time of making clothing to sell to the Paris boutiques. I made both my daughters' wedding dresses, with the lace and pearls and all that. So that's something I might do."

Politics is still a possibility, too, she said.

"I will probably have another political career; I don't know in what area yet, but that is something I've enjoyed—campaigning, meeting people in the community, serving people."

"People have asked me to run again. I haven't made a decision yet, but I most likely will do something in politics."

Bourgeois said she also would like to do some sort of classroom work again.

"It's been good to be able to influence the educational system on a community level," she stated, "but I would like to make an impact on a personal level again, too."

SCI

(A "time unit" essentially amounts to a good-weather work day.)

Byars and Irby said most recent confusion over the completion date arose by MDOT's use of a "pre-printed" monthly form that showed the 420-unit figure. A supplemental agreement that's being drafted, they said, would lock-in the longer time frame for SCI. Meanwhile, resident engineer Steve Twedt was to issue a letter Wednesday to assure the firm that the 448-unit figure is in effect.

SCI won a breach of contract suit against the Mississippi Transportation Commission in October, with a jury awarding the firm a $2.4 million verdict. The company successfully argued that the state had failed to ensure that utility lines were moved from the project's pathway on time, causing the company lost profits, additional overhead and substantial delays.

During the trial's opening arguments, and several times throughout the trial, Prewitt said, the state took the position that SCI had a total of 448 "time units" to complete the $7.9-million project from its inception. That would have given the firm through next spring to complete the four-laning project, between Highway 90 and Stennis International Airport.

Prewitt said that only a few days after SCI won its case, the state dropped its "time unit" projections from 448 units to 420, action that would have led to liquidated damage assessments.

Prewitt said that position was totally unacceptable, "a bloody disaster."

Meanwhile, earlier this month, Prewitt and state attorneys squared off in a hearing before Circuit Court Judge John Whitfield, contesting the trial's outcome. State officials asked that the judge throw out the jury verdict. Prewitt asked that the judge boost the award by $3 million.

Whitfield hasn't ruled on those post-trial motions.

With litigation's outcome still up in the air, state officials say they have given notice to two utilities that the state is wants them to help pay the damages awarded to SCI by the jury in October.

MDOT had tried, unsuccessfully, to have a number of area utility owners listed as defendants in the case. The state took the position that if damages were due to SCI, the utility owners should be forced to pay for delaying the project.

Whitfield refused to add the utilities as defendants, however. Lawyers with MDOT said Wednesday not all of the utilities which were originally listed as proposed defendants were sent letters in the wake of the trial.

Marshall Lusk, an MDOT attorney, said Coast Electric and South Central Bell were sent letters from the state informing them of the jury's award to SCI—and asking for help in paying whatever sum is finally agreed upon. So far, he said, there's been no response.

Adopt A Pet

Love comes in all sizes...

Thinking of adopting a new furry friend for someone this Christmas? Before you do, check with that person and make sure they can provide the animal with proper housing, nutrition, medical treatment, time and most of all... love. All new pets require lots of attention, but the rewards of having a loving pet are immeasurable.

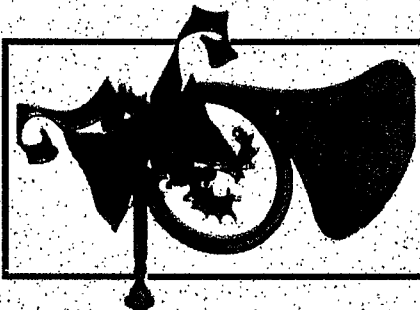

The animals you see here are waiting for a home and are available for immediate adoption. You can see these precious little pets at the Waveland Animal Shelter located on Gulfside Drive, next to the fire station in Waveland. If you are interested in adopting one or more of these adorable pets, or wish to make a much needed donation to the shelter, please call Nancy at 467-0230 for more information.

Please remember to thank the merchants on this page for sponsoring these animals. They make this page possible! Always be kind to animals and remember to have your pet spayed or neutered.

The Bob Harmon Football Forecast

NFL Forecast for Thursday, Sunday and Monday
Nov. 30, Dec. 3-4

**Arizona, 21—N.Y. Giants, 20
(Thursday) In Week Six the Giants beat the Cardinals 27-21 in OT on Jessie Armstead's 58-yard interception return for the winning TD. They'll split their divisional series for the fourth year in a row.

**Dallas, 35—Washington, 18
(Sunday) With 121 yards from running back Terry Allen, the Redskins raced to a 17-point lead over the over-confident Cowboys nine weeks ago and held on for a shocking 27-23 upset. It won't happen again.

**Denver, 24—Jacksonville, 17
When the Broncos have the ball, the Jaguars will be over-matched, but Jacksonville has a solid running game, something the Denver defense has problems with. Every game is crucial for the Broncos.

**Green Bay, 28—Cincinnati, 19
The Packers' strong suit is the pass, and the Bengal secondary has been giving up more yards through the air than any other in the NFL. They haven't met since '92, when G.B. beat Cincy 24-23.

Indianapolis, 26—**Carolina, 22
Alternately brilliant and bumbling, the Colts are hard to figure. They need a win to stay in the playoff picture, but the Panthers are more than capable of stopping their run-dependent offense.

**Miami, 32—Atlanta, 27
The Dolphins have won five of their six games with the Falcons, most recently in '92, but they've never met when both were contenders and both had explosive passing attacks. This should be good.

**Minnesota, 30—Tampa Bay, 20
Despite outplaying the Buccaneers, the Vikings lost to T.B. in October on Michael Husted's field goal in OT, 20-17. Minnesota's motivation? Husted did the same thing in the Metrodome last year.

**New England, 25—New Orleans, 23
A few weeks ago, when the Patriots and Saints looked incapable of beating anyone out of college, this might've been a yawner, but now both teams are much improved. In '92 N.O. beat N.E. 31-14.

**Oakland, 27—Kansas City, 24
Cornerback James Hasty returned an interception 64 yards for a TD in OT to lead the Chiefs over the Raiders in Week Three, 23-17. It's too bad they can't meet again for the AFC championship.

Philadelphia, 27—Seattle, 18
The Seahawks can keep this one close with their running game, one of the best in the NFL. The Eagles stay on the ground, too, and they can run all over Seattle. They haven't met in three years.

**Pittsburgh, 26—Houston, 14
In September the Steelers sacked Oilers QB Chris Chandler four times, intercepted him twice and pounded Houston 34-17. Both teams have great defenses, but Pittsburgh has the only working offense.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1995-3B

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Our Lady Academy basketball coach Harry Hull knew two years ago the road to success for the Crescents would be filled with potholes and detours.

OLA suffered through a winless season in its maiden voyage, and has lost nine straight to begin the 1995-96 campaign. But Hull is not deterred, as he sees progress in many areas.

"It's a building process but we're getting better, we're improving," the upbeat Hull said. "We have girls with athletic ability, but we must still work on our fundamentals."

Hull began last year by teaching the most basic of basketball skills: the layup. This year, he said he is teaching the jump shot.

"We are getting the kids to do some things well in practice," Hull said. "But often, they're doing something else in the game."

Hull said he knew a long, arduous process lay ahead when school officials answered the requests of several students and parents to begin a program. Eight years ago, the school began a soccer program in response to parents' request. Since then, the Crescents have become a perennial powerhouse.

Hull said he believes similar success is possible on the hardwood, but has established no timetable, though he did admit the Crescents may win "a couple of games" this year.

"I don't have unreasonable expectations," he said. "We just don't have the depth or the talent."

Recently, OLA enjoyed a 10-point halftime lead against Mercy Cross but faltered in the second half. Hull said a lack of depth was the biggest contributor to the Crescents' second half collapse.

"We have no bench," he said. "We just tired out against Mercy Cross. We couldn't give our kids a break."

The lack of depth is forcing Hull to play youngsters on the varsity level that he admits should be playing on the junior varsity. The Crescents have only nine players on the varsity team, with one senior, no juniors, and the rest underclassmen. Hull has even been forced to press eighth-grader Colleen May into service. There are only 18 players in the Crescents' fledgling program.

OLA's hardwood struggles

"There are several players I would prefer to play on the junior varsity but I don't have a choice," he said. "We just don't have the numbers."

Although Hull admitted losing is frustrating as a coach, he said his reward comes from seeing the enjoyment of the girls.

"I don't see the kids getting down at all," Hull said. "They enjoy playing, and they get along well together."

"I think it's more important for the older kids to get a win," he said. "They would like to win something."

We are practicing hard, and playing hard. We don't have that much experience and cannot compete yet against teams with experience.

"It takes a while to get to that level."

Hull said he has seen his team play well "in spurts" but "the consistency is not there yet."

"What's killing us now is we're getting the shots but can't make them," he said. "But I'm satisfied with the progress we're making."

"We're here for the long haul."

"The wins will come," he added. "To see the wins will be rewarding for both me and the kids."

OLA plays Mercy Cross Saturday at St. Stanislaus in what may be the Crescents' best opportunity for a win this season.

It is now in its third year and is a fun event for both the faculty and the seniors." "The seniors get a chance to play their teachers in a friendly game of football. Plus, this game raises money for the football team." In 1993, the faculty downed the seniors 33-8. Last year, the faculty remained victorious with a 34-12 win. ## Wildcats win their own Thanksgiving Classic

The Pearl River Community College Wildcats won their own Thanksgiving Classic Tuesday with a 90-84 overtime decision over Holmes Community College.

Donnie Johnson scored 23 points and grabbed nine rebounds as the Wildcats won their third straight game after dropping their first four encounters.

The Wildcats, defending state champions, were scheduled to enter South Division competition this week against Jones, Tuesday (Nov. 28) in Ellisville and Hinds at home Thursday.

Pearl River will travel to Gulf Coast Monday, Dec. 4 and finish the first semester action at home against East Central on Dec. 7.

"Right now, we are not shooting very well and we're not playing very good defense," said Richard Mathis, the Wildcats' head coach. "We are just a little out of sync."

The Pearl River coach said he was having problems getting his inside game to balance with the outside play of the Wildcats.

Freshman Chad Jones, a 6'-8" center from Morgan City, La., is now eligible to play, and Mathis believes he will make a difference.

"All the players on the team know he is a good player," said Mathis. "They believe in his ability, and that will help our entire team."

Jones had 21 points and five rebounds against Holmes, and sophomore point guard Omar Nelson scored 17 points.

"It was a great overall team effort against Holmes," said Mathis. "We fought so hard all the way through the game, the win was just a great reward."

Johnson is averaging 29.5 points and 15.5 rebounds per game. Nelson is hitting for 12 points and dishing out four assists per contest.

Mathis said the South Division was very well balanced this year. "Jones seems to be the cream of the crop," said Mathis. "But there are several of us not too far behind."

Gulf Coast, East Central, Southwest, Co-Lin, Jones, Hinds and Pearl River make up the South Division.

"We want to improve each game," said Mathis. "The object is to peak at tournament time and that's in the middle of February."

The Pearl River Wildcats finished 21-10 last year and won the state title for the first time since 1965.

The Wildcats were 8-5 overall and 2-2 in the division at the Christmas break last year.

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears, usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

Admirals shut down Lawyer and Rocks for SSC's first loss 68-51

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-chaw basketball team suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of the Gulfport Admirals in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum Shootout in Biloxi on November 28 by the score of 68-51. Over 3100 people were in attendance for the first annual event at the Coliseum and rivalry in the making between SSC and Gulfport.

Terry Lawyer, a Mississippi State signee, and the rest of the Rocks were rocked by some stingy defense from the young Admirals.

Coach Jay Ladner commented, "We got an old-fashioned butt whipping tonight. We were outmanned, out hustled, and outplayed."

"We are in a rut right now even though we have been winning. A lot of teams and coaches don't look at themselves critically when they have been winning like we have. It is never good to get beat but a team can learn from it."

The Rocks took an early 6-5 lead on a Lawyer putback but that was the last time the Rocks would see the lead in their favor. Gulfport stretched their lead to 17-8 in the first period.

Coach Ladner stated, "We lacked patience in our shooting and Terry Lawyer did not touch the ball enough early on."

"Also, some of the guys we expected to make some outside shots for us this year have not stepped up and done so. We are still waiting for our outside shooter to show himself."

The Rocks played some stingy defense of their own holding the Admirals to 39% shooting in the first half. Coach Ladner elaborated, "We held their shooting percentage down in the first half. The points that they got were from putbacks as a result of us not boxing out."

The Admirals excelled in all areas especially in outside shooting where Teco Hicks, Gulfport's point guard, poured in 15 points and made several key assists. Jonathan Brown scored 14 points for the Admirals while Terrance Burks added eight points.

The Gulfport defense, which played three to four different players on Lawyer, shutdown the Rocks' big man. Lawyer tallied only 14 points, well below his average of 25.1 points per game.

Matt Kopfler, of SSC, led all scorers with 19 points and Maurice Singleton chipped in 14 points.

The Admirals pushed the halftime score to 37-24. The Rocks attempted to make a run at Gulfport in the second half but the margin was too wide to overcome.

SSC's second teamers came in and made the score look more respectable against Gulfport's second teamers.

Ladner stated, "Our 'Street-fighters' (junior varsity) came in and played the game like it was supposed to have been played. I should have put them in earlier."

The Rocks will host the Picayune Maroon Tide in a key division matchup on Friday, December 1 at the Brother Peter Memorial Gym. Game time is set for 7:30pm. On Saturday, December 2 the Rocks will host Mercy Cross with tipoff at 7:30pm.

The Rocks' record drops to 7-1 overall and 2-0 in Division 7 Class 4A.

Tigers gain first win in tight game

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Bay High Tigers finally captured their first win of the season. With time dwindling down, the Tigers cashed in on two Bill McGowan free throws to seal the victory over the Pearl River Central Blue Devils 55-53. The win also gives Bay High a division win in Division 7 Class 4A.

PRC took an early lead 14-10 in the first period but Bay High brought the score within two by halftime at 28-26. The Tigers held the Blue Devils to only eight points in the third period to help secure the win.

Jason Robinson led the Tigers with 17 points and four assists while Steven Cooksey added 12 points and pulled down nine rebounds.

Desmond Robinson led the Blue Devils with 20 points.

With their first win of the season, the Tigers improve their record to 1-6 and 1-2 in the division.

The Lady Tigers of Bay High crushed the Lady Blue Devils 59-34 behind the play of Valerie Christmas and Chanda Haley.

Christmas scored 16 points and grabbed 10 rebounds as Haley chipped in 15 points, pulled down six rebounds, and had five steals. Shannon Baker dishd out seven assists to go with four points while Alicia Gavagnie had five steals with eight points.

The first period ended 12-12 and Bay High held PRC to just nine points in the second period while scoring 19 points to make the halftime score 31-17.

The Lady Blue Devils could manage only a total of ten points the entire second half against the defense and inside game of the Lady Tigers.

With the win, the Lady Tigers up their record to 6-2 and 2-1 in the division.

Jr Rocks split with Poplarville

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Junior High Rocks basketball team split two games with the Poplarville Hornets on November 27.

The eighth grade Rocks defeated the Hornets 52-34 to remain undefeated at 3-0.

Zeke Davis led the Rocks with 17 points while David May and Brandon Farve each added eight points.

Bay High falls to Oak Grove

BY RICHARD MEEK
Bay High coach Steve Austin said his young Tigers "play up one game and down the next." Tuesday night was one of the downers, as the Tigers were easily defeated, 62-43, by previously winless Oak Grove. Bay High, 1-7, 1-4 in Division 7 Class 4A, trailed by as many as 26 points in the second half.

In the girls' game, Bay High defeated Oak Grove, 7-2, 4-1. The Lady Tigers are 7-2, 4-1. "We're looking for consistency," a disappointed Austin said. "The biggest problem we had tonight was that (point guard Jason Robinson) was playing hurt and that had a big effect on our team."

"We played tentative the entire game,"

The Warriors, 1-7, 1-1, jumped out to an 11-3 lead with 2:40 left in the first quarter. But Bay High trimmed the margin to 15-9 at the quarter, and pulled to within 17-15 at the 5:29 mark of the second quarter on Stevie Lizana's layup.

But the Tigers would come no closer, as Oak Grove turned a 27-21 halftime lead into a 49-27 cushion at the end of three quarters. Bay High's only third quarter points came on Robinson's jumper, Marc Price's three-pointer and a foul shot by Wendall Raboteau. Bay High committed 11 turnovers and was outrebounded 11-4 in the quarter.

Donny Bridges of Oak Grove scored eight of his 12 points in the decisive third quarter. Bridges, who finished with five steals, scored Oak Grove's final six points.

"We didn't shoot well, we didn't move the ball well and defensively, we played horrible," Austin said. "We were standing around and watching."

Lizana was the only Tiger in double figures with 13 points. But Lizana, who also had a team-high nine rebounds, was held scoreless the second half. Robinson, the Tigers' hobbled floor leader, had nine points, three rebounds and two steals.

Forward Greg Hodges led four Warriors in double figures with 13 points. He also had eight rebounds and three steals.

Calvin Morgan and Forrest Catlett scored 11 points each for the Warriors. Catlett also grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds.

Oak Grove point guard Donovan Fielder recorded six steals to go along with his six points.

Valerie Christmas led the Lady Tigers with 21 points and 10 rebounds. Alicia Gavagnie scored 11 points for Bay High. Bay High plays at Pass Christian on Saturday.

Lady Wildcats win

The Pearl River Community College Lady Wildcats are struggling to find their identity here in 1995.

The task will not get any easier as the PRCC ladies will enter the South Division competition this week. Jones is on tap for Tuesday in Ellisville, and Hinds will visit Thursday in a 6 p.m. game in the Marvin R. White Coliseum.

On Monday, Dec. 4, PRCC will visit Mississippi Gulf Coast and then entertain East Central on Thursday, Dec. 7, to finish play this semester.

"We're learning and improving, but we have such a long way to go," said head coach Polly Kirkland, who led the Lady Wildcats to a 52-13 record over the past two years.

Pearl River is 2-7 overall, losing 86-61 to Pensacola, 87-57 to Okaloosa, and 73-64 to Holmes this past week. The Lady Wildcats beat Mississippi Delta 83-75.

Sophomore Deliana Lucas of Sumrall is averaging 20 points per game, while sophomore Alberta Travis of Poplarville is hitting 16 points per contest.

"We have played tough competition," said Kirkland. "We have certainly been put under fire. Maybe that will help as we enter division play."

The Lady Wildcats were 9-2 overall and 3-1 in the division at the Christmas break last year.

Federation to honor conservationists

The Mississippi Wildlife Federation is accepting nominations for outstanding conservationists to honor at its 50th Anniversary Conservation Achievement Awards Banquet.

The ceremony, to be held Feb. 24 in Jackson, will serve to recognize Mississippi citizens, businesses and organization and natural resource professionals who have dedicated their lives to conservation of the state's wildlife and natural resources.

"This year's awards program is special because it will profile lifetime achievement. It's the best way we know of to highlight the outstanding work Mississippi volunteers do every day, which may otherwise go unnoticed," said Mike Goff, MWF president. "I really encourage people to take time to nominate those people they believe should be recognized as the greatest conservationists of this century."

The awards program, co-sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, has 13 different award categories: Conservationist of the Year Award (for the most outstanding lifetime contribution); Wildlife Conservationist; Fisheries Conservationist; Forest Conservationist; Soil, Air and Water Conservationist; Youth Conservationist of the Year; Conservation Educator; Conservation Communicator; Conservation Organization; Conservation Legislator; Conservation Officer; and Hunter Education Volunteer Instructor; and Corporate Conservationist of the Year.

MWF conducts its awards banquet in conjunction with its annual convention and conservation symposia. All events are open to the public.

"We welcome nominations of any Mississippian or Mississippian group who has gone the extra mile during their life for conservation," said Elizabeth Rooks, MWF executive director. She said all previous award winners are eligible for any award.

Anyone wishing to receive a nomination from or information on the 50th anniversary celebration may contact MWF at P. O. Box 1814, Jackson, MS 39215-1814, or call (601) 353-6922. Nominations for awards will be accepted by the Awards Committee until Jan. 2.

St. John ousts OLA

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Our Lady Academy Crescents were defeated by the high-flying and undefeated St. John Lady Eagles 67-30 on November 25 in Gulfport.

Eleanor Ramos, of St. John, collected a triple-double against the Crescents scoring 18 points, grabbing 12 boards, and dishing out 10 assists. Caron Acosta added 13 points with 10 rebounds and four steals for St. John.

Jessica Keller was the high scorer for OLA with 16 points. Keller made four three-pointers for the Crescents.

St. John jumped out to a 19-9 first period lead and increased the lead to 41-15 by halftime.

The lead was too much, and the Lady Eagles were too strong for the Crescents to overcome in the second half.

With the loss, OLA falls to 0-9 on the season while St. John preserves its undefeated record at 8-0 and 2-0 in the division.

Effective crankbait fishing requires a delicate touch

Many bass fishermen think of crankbaits only in terms of casting and winding, but to truly use these lures effectively an angler must develop a sense of touch as delicate as a surgeon.

That's the opinion of veteran bass tournament angler Guy Eaker, who has used the diving lures for many years and won several national tournaments with them.

"You have to learn to 'feel' a crankbait just like you do a plastic worm or a jig," says Eaker, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and co-author of the new book, "Catching Bass Like A Pro."

"It's hard to believe, but a bass can totally inhale a crankbait and then spit it out without the fisherman ever feeling anything. This has been documented on film."

"By 'feel' I mean being able to detect the slightest change in the vibration of the lure, such as when it has been hit by a fish, so you can set the hook. This isn't something you can learn overnight, either, but it is something every serious bass angler needs to learn.

Several factors are involved in learning how to feel crankbaits, continues the North Carolina angler. These include using the proper rod as well as a line with very low stretch.

"I use a strong but small diameter line for crankbaits," says Eaker, "because it is more sensitive. A small diameter line allows the lure to vibrate more freely, and this is what you have to feel."

"The best crankbait rods are usually medium or medium-heavy with a general parabolic action so the entire rod bends when a bass hits, not just the tip. This also means increased sensitivity and better feel for you."

The Evinrude pro suggests anglers spend a lot of time on the water fishing crankbaits with different rods until they find a model they really like and feel comfortable using. After that, it's practice, practice.

Primitive weapons opens

The primitive weapon segment of the deer season opens this Saturday statewide and continues through Dec. 15, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

The bag limit on bucks is one per day, not to exceed three during the license year. Only legal bucks with antlers four points or greater may be taken. An antler point is defined as any antler protrusion that would hold any size ring.

The bag limit on antlerless deer is one per day, not to exceed five during the license year.

Legal shooting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

Each year state hunters using primitive weapons harvest in excess of 30,000 bucks and does, according to data from the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

Figures from the 1995-96 season show that more than 58,000 hunters spent in excess of 285,000 man-days hunting using primitive weapons.

Enforcement officials remind sportsmen to have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going hunting.

All deer hunters must wear in full view a minimum of 500 square inches of solid unbroken continuous daylight fluorescent hunter orange material during any open gun season on deer.
